

The Carl Gustav Carus Faculty of Medicine at Technische Universität Dresden is offering a position starting 01.10. 2018

Professorship (W3) of Anatomy (Focus Neuroanatomy)

The selected candidate will take the position of the director of the Institute of Anatomy coequal with the status emeritus of the present director (Prof. Dr. RHW Funk) at 31.03. 2019.

The selected candidate is expected to represent the entire field of Anatomy with regard to research as well as teaching where he/she will take full curricular responsibility for medical and dental students. The Faculty of Medicine expects an active integration of research activities into preexisting infrastructures and research topics. Furthermore, an active participation in cooperative research groups of TU Dresden and extramural non-university research institutions, e.g. on site Max Planck- or Helmholtz-Institutes, is desired. A special support in academic self-governance and cooperation in training courses for post-gradual medical education are highly welcome.

Prerequisites for a successful application according to § 58 SächsHSFG include a university degree in medicine or biomedical sciences, a doctoral degree and a post-doctoral degree/habilitation or an equivalent qualification record and documented comprehensive teaching experience of human anatomy and experience as an examiner in the Federal Exam. Board certification for Anatomy by the medical board or the Anatomical Society is highly desired. Ideally the candidate is internationally recognized for his/her research, has ample experience in third-party fund raising and is experienced in leading research teams.

The Faculty of Medicine aspires to increase the number of women in research and teaching, and strongly encourages qualified women to apply for this position. We also welcome applications from scientists with disabilities.
